Certified Pathways from Industry Leaders

GG4L is the primary partner for several major IT and education vendors to deliver certified pathways in IT and other industry domains to high schools and community colleges. Most programs are offered free of charge to educational institutions, while some have modest license fees. The programs are designed to develop entry level skills and span a variety of in-demand areas, such as cybersecurity, digital marketing, and many others. These programs offer online educational materials and completion badges for students.

Career Readiness Partners

Provide Students with Meaningful Pathways to High Paying Jobs

As a Public Benefit Corporation, GG4L maintains significant mission focused initiatives to support students and schools around the world. Our primary initiative today is developing Career Readiness for students, beginning in their high school years.

We have worked with employers and partners in technology and education to improve pathways to in-demand jobs for students. Our initiatives are built to scale impact, offer tangible opportunities to students, and to better connect the employment community to education.
