

Have you considered AEPA?

Navigating government purchasing can often be challenging. Creating an RFP, finding suitable vendors, reviewing responses, and selecting the right vendor can all be cumbersome tasks, especially when you already have a clear idea of what you need.

But what if there was a simpler way? What if you could choose the vendor and product you want without spending countless hours managing procurement? What if all of this could be handled for you with less hassle, reduced cost, and ultimately, better pricing?

AEPA is a multi-state nonprofit organization, serving as a nationwide educational agency that advocates for the interests of schools and agencies. AEPA facilitates equal purchasing opportunities by addressing current and future procurement needs. This impactful organization caters to the requirements of 25 million students across the nation.
