

Build Classrooms That Work for Everyone

K-12 leaders must maximize limited resources and create engaging learning environments while ensuring every student and family feels supported and connected. Two EdTech™ magazine articles explore how thoughtful classroom design and emerging AI tools can help districts meet that challenge.

Learn how thoughtful classroom design can boost focus and flexibility, and how AI translation is helping schools remove language barriers and strengthen family engagement.

Together, these insights show how districts can support every learner while building trust across their communities. With the right strategy, solutions and support, CDW can help schools turn these ideas into action.
