Smarter IT and AI for K-12 Schools

K-12 teams are under pressure to support more devices more users, and higher expectations, often with limited staff and time. The right approach can make all the difference. Learn how schools with small IT teams are managing large device fleets while maintaining security, performance, and classroom continuity. At the same time, see how AI tools like Gemini Gems are helping educators save time, personalize instruction, and better support students. CDW helps schools turn these ideas into action with trusted technology, services, and expertise designed for K-12 environments.
