Put AI to Work Across Your Network

K–12 CIOs are being asked to support more devices, digital tools, AI-enabled instruction and secure access, often with networks that were not built for today's demands. But aging infrastructure, limited IT resources and growing bandwidth needs can make it difficult to deliver consistent experiences for every student and educator.

CDW can help schools and districts design integrated networking solutions that improve performance, simplify management and support better educational outcomes. In these EdTech™ articles, see how AI-enabled networking can create a smarter foundation for modern learning, then watch how one district helps students stay connected wherever learning happens.
