Dunlap family, coaches not surprised

Shad Powers

The Palm Springs Desert Sun
USA TODAY Network

LA QUINTA, Calif. – Before the 2024 The American Express, it would have been hard to imagine a more surprising winner than 20-year-old amateur Nick Dunlap.

But those who knew Dunlap, including many of his friends, family and coaches who were on hand Sunday for his historic PGA Tour victory, weren't caught off guard by his remarkable four days in La Quinta.

Dunlap is a sophomore at the University of Alabama, and his coach Jay Seawell made the trip to the desert this weekend. He was jumping around and hugging everyone around him when Dunlap's winning putt went in on the 18th hole.

"Just jubilation," Seawell said behind the 18th green at the Stadium Course at PGA West as Dunlap was accepting the trophy. "When you've known a young man for a long time and know this is what he dreamed of when he was 11 years old and he'd tell you that himself, I've been emotional all day."

Dunlap had a three-stroke lead to begin Sunday, but it evaporated with a double-bogey on the seventh hole that included a water ball. The general public may have thought that was the beginning of the end for the 20-year-old who became the second-youngest winner on the PGA Tour in 90 years. Not dad.

"Somebody asked me about halfway through 'Do you think he's going to win?' and I was like 'Well, I don't know if he's going to win, but he is a grinder and I guarantee he's going to have some birdies toward the end,' and he did," said Dunlap's father, Jim, who along with Dunlap's mom, Charlene, were emotional and quick to give their son a long hug after the final putt dropped.

"I think a few tears trickled out and I'm not a big crier, but it's hard not to be proud of your son who works his tail off and finds a way to win," Jim said.

Dunlap said having so many family members, friends and coaches fly out from Alabama to be here this weekend, once it became clear he would be in contention, made a difference.

When the final putt rolled in, he finally rid himself of his stoic demeanor, fist pumping, shouting and finding his family and friends for hugs and high-fives. And then the tears started flowing.

"I lost it. I really did, just for all them to show up and fly all the way out here. I think I gave a couple of 'em an excuse to get out of the bad weather. But, yeah, just to walk off the green and see everybody that showed up for me was really special. I'll never forget it," Dunlap said.

For the record the high in his hometown of Huntsville, Alabama, was 22 degrees on Saturday.

Having his crew with him helped him stay calm and remember to breathe, he said. And he needed that.

"I wish I had some kind of heart monitor on and you wouldn't have seen (a calm demeanor)," he said. "But, yeah, most nervous I've ever been, by far. Just try to breathe as much as I can, walk slow, try to do everything slow. In that moment, everything speeds up. I would say I have had a little bit of experience leading golf tournaments, but nothing to this extent. Obviously, the PGA Tour's extremely different.

"So that whole process was different for me, and whether it had turned out the way I was looking or not, I was just going to try to learn from it."

It seems like all Dunlap does is win. He won the Junior Amateur, the U.S. Amateur and now a PGA Tour event as an amateur. No player has ever pulled off that trifecta.

His girlfriend, family and coaches were all soaking in the win, as they hung out in the media room more than an hour after his victory watching Nick do interviews with the likes of "Good Morning America" and ESPN's "SportsCenter." It's possible a star was born in La Quinta on Sunday.

Seawell said, of course Dunlap has the skill, but it's his demeanor that allows him to end up in the winner's circle so often.

"Some people are built different," Seawell said. "He's won everywhere he's been, and you saw it today. He made a double on seven and he could have folded the tent right there, but he didn't. He kept playing and he didn't fold, so I was really proud of that. This wasn't too big for him. It was new to him, but it wasn't too big for him."

Dunlap perseveres in tense AmEx round

Larry Bohannon

The Palm Springs Desert Sun
USA TODAY Network

LA QUINTA, Calif. – From Arnold Palmer's five tournament wins to David Duval's iconic final-round 59 to come-from-behind and win the 1999 event, The American Express has seen history time and time again.

Now next to Palmer and Duval comes 20-year-old amateur Nick Dunlap.

Looking for most of the day like the magic that had vaulted him to a three-shot lead entering the final round had evaporated, the University of Alabama sophomore Dunlap grinded down the stretch for a historic one-shot victory.

Dunlap becomes the first amateur to win a PGA Tour event since Phil Mickelson in 1991. He set a tournament record by finishing 29-under par.

As Dunlap played his final nine holes in 2-under par, tour veteran Sam Burns faltered with tee shots into the water on the final two holes Sunday at the PGA West Stadium Course. Burns lost the lead with consecutive double-bogeys and finished four shots back.

Dunlap's par and Burns' double bogey on the ring-rocked par-3 17th were enough to give Dunlap the lead after Burns had played steady, consistent golf throughout the day.

But Dunlap still needed to scramble for a par on the final hole to stay one shot ahead of Christiaan Bezuidenhout, who played the final four holes in 3-under for a 65. That put Bezuidenhout at 28 under, one shot behind Dunlap, who managed an up and down on the 18th hole including a 5-foot par putt.

"Whether I had made that or missed that, if you would have told me that, you know, come Wednesday night I would have a putt to win this golf tournament, I wouldn't believe you," Dunlap said.

While Dunlap said he did feel the nerves of the moment, he had a big helper beside him in caddie Hunter Hamrick, a former assistant coach at the University of Alabama.

"He was so calm all day, his attitude never changed," Dunlap said. "Just kind of, his last thing is, like, man, this is inside left, you made a million of these putts before, it's just another one."

Dunlap's 29-under 259 total is the tournament record since the event switched to a 72-hole format in 2012.

Dunlap's win will resonate at The American Express and across the PGA Tour. Dunlap matches Mickelson's 1991 victory in the Northern Telecom Open in Tucson, when Mickelson was 20 years old. Dunlap, also 20 and the reigning U.S. Amateur champion just as Mickelson was 33 years ago, becomes the youngest winner on the PGA Tour since 19-year-old Jordan Spieth won the 2013 John Deere Classic.

While Dunlap walks away with no prize money, with Bezuidenhout taking home the $1,512,000 first-place check, it is Dunlap who creates history that won't soon be forgotten in the desert or on the PGA Tour.

Dunlap is the first player to win as a sponsor's exemption since Martin Laird at the 2021 Shriners Hospital event in Las Vegas.

In only his fourth professional start, Dunlap made the cut for the first time. He remains only the second player to win the U.S. Junior Amateur and the U.S. Amateur, along with Tiger Woods.

"It's amazing. Actually, I heard his name last year when he won the U.S. Amateur," Bezuidenhout said.

"Yeah, he's obviously a hell of a player and congrats to him and hopefully he can be out on the PGA Tour soon, and we all can get to play with him."

To turn pro or not to turn pro

Adam Schupak

Golfweek | USA TODAY Network

The American Express champion Nick Dunlap has a big decision to make – to turn pro or not to turn pro.

The first amateur to win on the PGA Tour since Phil Mickelson in 1991 is exempt on the PGA Tour through the 2026 season, so technically there's no rush. But if he turns pro, he's also exempt into the remaining seven signature events this season, several of which are limited field, no-cut events with purses of at least $20 million (as well as The Sentry in 2025). It's a no-brainer for the Alabama sophomore, right?

But when asked during his winner's press conference if he would be accepting PGA Tour membership, Dunlap hesitated and the more he spoke about it the more conflicted he seemed.

"I have no idea," he said. "I really don't."

Dunlap's life has changed no matter what he decides and he's gained admission to a new world.

"Starting the week, if you would have said, hey, in five days you're going to have a PGA Tour card or an opportunity for two years, I would have looked at you sideways," Dunlap said.

I don't think he was being modest. And his next statement was telling. He noted that his decision has huge ramifications not just for him.

"It affects a lot of people, (Alabama) coach (Jay Seawell) back there and my teammates, and it's a conversation I need to have with a lot of people before I make that decision," he said.

Later, he would express a desire to be ranked No. 1 in the World Amateur Golf Rankings and to win a ring with his Alabama teammates. Having already won the U.S. Junior Amateur and U.S. Amateur in 2023, he's in Rose Zhang territory where there's really nothing more for him to achieve in the amateur game. Plus, Dunlap also has dreamed of winning on the PGA Tour for most of his life.

Nick Dunlap celebrates sinking a putt on the 18th green to win The American Express. ANDY ABEYTA/THE DESERT SUN

"As a kid, you kind of whack it around all over the putting green and every putt's for a chance to win, whether that's a PGA Tour event, the Masters, the U.S. Open. And to have that putt, I took a little bit longer than I normally might, and just take in the moment and nothing's for granted. I may not ever have that chance again, and I just want to embrace it," he said. "You know, like I said, it may not ever happen again."

There is, of course, a wild card to be considered in all of this. There's no doubt that LIV Golf will circle with a lucrative offer that will make him think twice about whether he wants to try to win a ring or have a bank account with Saudi-funded generational wealth.

During a virtual press conference I asked Dunlap if he or his representatives have been contacted by LIV, and if so, does he have any interest in competing in the league?

"As of right now I have no idea, I really don't," he said.

He shared that he is represented by GSE and agent Kevin Canning, who Dunlap said worked a deal for Jason Kokrak to go to LIV. GSE also represents Bryson DeChambeau and numerous of their clientele jumped to LIV for big bucks.
